FIRE SAFETY TRAINING REQUIREMENTS

FIRE TRAINING

UK Fire Legislation The Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety Order) 2005 & The Fire Safety (Employees Capabilities) (England) Regulations 2010 require all employers and organisations to ensure that all their employees are provided with adequate fire safety training on Induction and refreshed at least annually and where additional duties such as Fire Marshals / Wardens are required specific training is provided covering the additional roles.

We provide fire extinguisher fire awareness and fire marshal training and all our courses include an outdoor practical session, (see below) which provides each delegate with the opportunity to handle fire extinguishers, putting out actual fires on our training rig, with safety cones and “Live Fire training” signage to the perimeter.

Each delegate who completes the course will receive a certificate of attendance for your fire records.

Live fire demonstration, including delegate participation

Delegates will have the opportunity to extinguish fires on our gas simulator shown below

With water and Carbon Dioxide Fire Extinguishers

In Line with the Environmental Agency Requirements Notice LIT 7753

Our Gas Fired Training Rig provides safe, yet realistic live fire extinguisher training for course attendees, in addition further safety measures are provided with a safe area being provided with safety cones and live Fire training’ signage to the perimeter.

If required our courses include an outdoor practical session.
(Weather permitting and if a suitable outside area is available)
